*Racial discrimination?
Know your rights!*

Have you been treated unfairly because of your race?
Did you know there's something you can do about it?

The Racial Discrimination Act makes it against the law to treat someone unfairly because of their race in many areas of life, including employment, education and when using or receiving services. The Act also makes racial hatred against the law.

The Australian Human Rights Commission can help resolve complaints under the Racial Discrimination Act - and it doesn't cost anything to make a complaint.
